Schools seek millage transfers to avoid cuts

By KIM KOESTER
ANP Special Writer

Romulus Public Schools face the threat of drastic cuts in services and curriculum should voters fail to approve millage transfers proposed on the August primary election ballot, according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell.

According to Bedell, the district must reduce present debt levies, and can accomplish this through fund transfers. These transfers, although requiring no increase in taxes, must be approved by voters and will appear on the August primary ballot. If voters fail to approve the measures at that time, school officials will place the question on the ballot again in the November general election.

State approved cuts could include the reduction of the school day to five hours, according to Bedell.

The current debt levy of 5.4 mills yields approximately $1,819,800 in funds. The requirements for this year are $1,826,000, but will be reduced to $1,755,613 next year and to about $1,200,000 each following year. The state equalized value for the property in the school district grew $13,000,000 last year and seems likely to continue to increase, Bedell explained.

Presently, a $1,674,476 surplus exists in the debt fund, and the 1984 general fund debt payments will drop to practically nothing in two years.

To meet the deficit, school officials have proposed the transfer of 4.5 mills from the debt levy to the general fund for one year (1988-89). Also, 2 mills from the debt fund would be transferred beginning in 1989-1990 to the general fund. These transfers represent Proposals A and B on the upcoming August primary ballot. The proposals have already been defeated by voters twice this year.

Two basic revenue accounts exist for Michigan school districts, the general fund which can be used for everyday expenses like salaries, fuels, supplies, etc., and the debt fund which can be used only to pay off long-term debt on bond issues.

Romulus schools have a 1982 bond, refinanced in 1984, that will have very small payments in the coming years, said Joel Carr, assistant superintendent of finance, which makes it practical to transfer the money.

The payment for 1988 is $596,450, for 1989 $521,769, for 1990 only $38,800, and 1991 $21,800, which are relatively small amounts, Carr said.

Since the law allows school districts to "over-levy" the millage for the debt fund to keep a reserve against trouble, past school boards and administrators have been super-conservative and "over-levied" for 10 years and created a $1,530,000 debt fund surplus, according to school spokesmen.

With this surplus, under Proposal A the general fund could get a one-time "wind-fall" of $1,530,000 without a tax rate increase, according to school officials.

"Our enemy in Romulus is apathy," Bedell said.

"Two thousand vote no, no matter what," he said, and noted the last election was very close, with a difference of about 100 votes.

Also, Romulus school officials hope the proposals will be approved at the August election to avoid having the transfer questions on the ballot in November at the same time as a bond proposal which is being considered.

The bond proposal would be used for bringing higher technology into the schools, including computers, Bedell said.

With the computers, the "teacher's role will be very different," Bedell said. He is very enthusiastic about the idea, and believes by giving students success, working at their own pace, will help keep them in school.

County program could bring schools $200,000

A program to provide educational programs for misdemeanor offenders through the Alternate Sentencing Program in Wayne County could provide more than $200,000 in revenue for the Romulus School District.

According to Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell, district administrators have been negotiating with county officials in order to finalize a contract for the educational services. Presently, a site must be chosen for the classes which will provide eight 10-week classes for those convicted of non-violent misdemeanor offenses.

Sites proposed for the program were Old South, Mt. Pleasant, three private buildings, the Army Center in Woodhaven and Wayne County Community College Western Campus.

The Mt. Pleasant site was "removed from consideration" by board members at the regular meeting Monday evening, said Joel Carr, assistant superintendent for finance and operations.

Necessary costs for the program would include three to four staff members eight hours per day, facility costs, supervision, and equipment and furniture including a $20,000 learning lab.

The curriculum would consist of three primary components, Adult Basic Education or General Educational Development, computer literacy, and life skills management, according to a first draft of the agreement.

Also, the Romulus Community Schools reserves the right to drop any student "deemed detrimental to the program."

A site still has to be chosen for the program.

New runway may alter Wayne Road

By KIM KOESTER
ANP Special Writer

A fourth parallel (north-south) runway may be constructed at Metro Airport which could cause major changes in area roads, according to Romulus Director of Economic Development Dennis Oakes.

While Oakes stressed that there is no formal proposal at this time and that alternatives are being considered, a study recommendation would move Wayne Road should the present plan be implemented.

The Airport Capacity Enhancement Plan reported, "The fourth runway is a very beneficial improvement for increased capacity capabilities from the Air Traffic Control standpoint. The fourth runway would be necessary for DTW to be able to handle 500,000 to 600,000 operations a year."

The plan was prepared jointly by the Federal Aviation Administration, Wayne County Division of Airports, the State of Michigan, the airlines and general aviation serving this area. Another runway and 19 other improvements were also suggested for expansion at the airport.

According to the report, the Enhancement Task Force looked at two alternatives, to either construct a dependent runway or an independent runway.

"Estimated benefits of a dependent runway would be an annual delay reduction of 2,425 hours amounting to $3.8 million. Estimated benefits of an independent runway would be an annual delay reduction of 2,425 hours amounting to $3.8 million. Estimated benefits of an independent runway would be an annual delay reduction of 2,425 hours amounting to $3.8 million. Estimated benefits of an independent runway would be an annual delay reduction of 2,425 hours amounting to $3.8 million."

Surprise Birthday reunites friends

By KIM KOESTER
ANP Special Writer

"It was just wonderful," said Roseann Druyor, "I couldn't get over my children doing it."

But they did. On Saturday, July 2, Druyor was the guest of honor at a surprise birthday party at her home. She said she was "never so surprised."

Her daughter, Judy Shannon, said "you would have to know my mom. She is a special lady who does good deeds for everyone."

Shannon reminisced about her childhood and recalled there was "lots of food for everyone," and how anyone would be fed with the family even though they were poor.

So in April, she said, she got an idea to get all of the people she and her brothers grew up with together to surprise Druyor at a party.

Knowledge of the party spread by word of mouth, she said, and with family and friends about 178 people, including 20 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren, attended the party. Besides Shannon, Druyor has five sons, Bill, Bob, Jerry, Richard, and Arthur, Shannon said.

She had to work very hard to hide the party from her mother, Shannon said. Thursday she and her sister-in-law did the cooking for the party at St. John's Lutheran Church, where she works, and then on Friday she kept her mother with her while her brothers and sisters-in-law got their mother's house ready, she said.

To get Druyor spruced up for the party, Shannon wanted to take her to her daughter, a hairdresser. To convince her to go, however, Shannon said they told her that a newspaper had heard about her 80th birthday and wanted to get a picture, and one of her daughter's colleagues even called, pretending to be from a newspaper, to complete the charade.

In order to keep the guest of honor from seeing the cars of the guests, Shannon even took a different route back to the house the day of the party.

As they turned the corner, her mother said she wondered what was happening, Shannon said. "I said gee, mom, I don't know," laughed Shannon.

Then they saw everyone standing in the yard, she said, and her mother started crying, saying she didn't want a party.

She was very happy with the party, however, Shannon said, and was very surprised that they had pulled it off, because she had not suspected anything.

The party was "very rewarding for her," Shannon said, because many people they had not seen for 20 or 30 years came to the party. Even her brother Jerry's band, Common People, got together again to play for the party, she said.

Her mother was "absolutely thrilled" to see people after so many years, she said.

After being with people she hadn't seen or thought of in years, Druyor is now asking about others, Shannon said, who they were not able to contact about the party.

People are calling now, too, Shannon said, like a girlfriend her mother had not seen in 50 years who heard about the party.

"My mom is a special lady who always helped and asked for nothing in return," Shannon said. Her mother has survived cancer and lost her husband 23 years ago, she said.

"We have always celebrated (her birthday) on the second," Shannon said, usually the second through the fourth, so this year they just wanted a big reunion so everyone could get together and talk.

Her mother was "so thrilled" at all the flowers she received and even though they had said no gifts, Druyor received many, Shannon said.

"We are always together," she said, and indeed she said two brothers live next door to their mother and she and another brother live nearby. Their other brother, however, lives up north, she said.

It was "really a lovely party," Druyor said, and was surprised that so many of the children her children had known and then lost contact with came to her party.

And according to Shannon, her mother said "If I live to be 90 I want another party."

STATE NEWS DIGEST

Foster parents shielded by law

A new state law gives partial legal immunity to foster parents threatened with harassment by foster children or their natural families.

Legal action cannot be brought against foster parents for exercising reasonable parental authority over the child, or when the foster parents' actions deal with providing food, clothing, housing, medical or dental services.

Dependencies of newborns must be reported

Doctors and other health professionals will be required to inform the state Department of Public Health about any infants born with a drug or alcohol dependency passed on by the mother under a bill that has been presented to the governor.

The measure is designed to identify and track children who may need further health services.

Special license plates approved

A bill has been approved by the state legislature that would under certain circumstances eliminate the need to obtain a duplicate of a missing certificate of title in order to complete a private automotive sale.

The measure also allows car dealers in Michigan to get special three-year registration plates for the vehicles they sell.

Game law recodified

The 1929 Game Law will be replaced with an new measure that gives the Natural Resources Commission complete authority to regulate hunting and game management. This authority is currently fragmented between NCR and the state legislature.

The NRC is required to finish the process of replacing the current Game Law provisions with new orders by Jan. 1, 1990.

Medicaid services may be improved

Two bills recently approved by the state House and currently in state Senate human resources and seniors committee would improve health services for Medicaid.

One bill would require the Department of Social Services to provide for appropriate home-based alternatives of nursing home care for Medicaid patients. The second bill would require DSS to act within 20 days on Medicaid authorizations of equipment and medical supplies such as wheelchairs and breathing devices. Proponents of the measures say they will eliminate many hardships faced by Medicaid patients and reduce costs.

Consumer privacy may be protected

The privacy of individuals who rent, borrow or buy books, video tapes and other written or recorded materials will be protected under bills currently in the state Senate judiciary committee.

Under the bills, retailers would face civil and criminal penalties if they disclosed the identity of their customers and what materials the customers obtained.

Small claims limit may be increased

The amount of money involved in small claims court cases could be increased from $1,500 to $2,500 under a bill currently in the state Senate judiciary committee.

The measure also calls for some fraud cases to be heard in small claims court and require the judge to tell the plaintiff and defendant about their rights and obligations in the proceedings.

Planners slate new hearing

Oops! A mistake in the reported time for a hearing on an alley vacating has resulted in the rescheduling of the hearing by the Belleville Planning Commission.

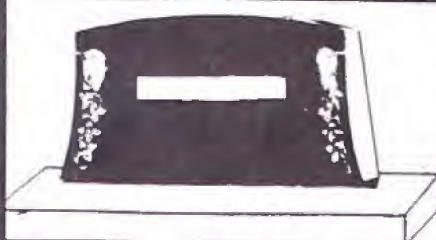

The hearing to vacate the alley at Church and Charles streets has been scheduled at 6:30 p.m. At that time, only four people were in attendance — two of whom represented the First United Methodist Church who had requested the vacating.

However, after the commissioners approved the request, six additional people appeared at the hearing. The late arrivals presented letters showing that the hearing was to begin at 7 p.m.

City Manager Robert Herron told the commissioners they could stand by their decision and present their recommendation to the city council with the dissenters informed that they could file a protest, or the planners could rescind their vote and schedule another hearing.

The Belleville planners decided to schedule another hearing at 7 p.m. July 19.

Couple charged in murder plot

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

A Westland man, recently convicted of sexually molesting his two daughters, now faces new charges along with his wife.

Danny Ray Dunlap and his wife, Veralee Dunlap, were arraigned July 9 on charges that they conspired to kill relatives who were taking care of their children.

According to Lt. Mike Frayer of the Westland Police Department, deputies of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department issued arrest warrants for Dunlap and his wife on Friday.

"Because it all began at the Wayne County Jail it was up to the sheriff's department to issue the warrants," Frayer said.

The Dunlaps' six children have been in foster homes since warrants were issued against their father several months ago. Four of the children are in a regular foster home and two of the children are staying with relatives of Veralee Dunlap.

It was these relatives who were the focus of the murder plot, Frayer explained.

According to Frayer, Dunlap approached a fellow inmate at the Wayne County Jail who was about to be released and devised a plot to murder the people who were taking care of the Dunlap children.

Frayer said detailed arrangements for the murder were made between the two men. When the inmate was released he was to contact Dunlap's wife to get money for the killings.

The inmate, according to Frayer, informed sheriff's deputies of the plot and an undercover sheriff's deputy was sent to the meeting with Veralee.

Veralee met with the undercover officer July 7 and wrote out a check for $300 for the "hit."

The following day arrest warrants were issued.

Dunlap's trial on criminal sexual conduct charges ended July 6 when a jury found him guilty after only one hour of deliberation.

Dunlap then pleaded guilty to lesser charges against him, corrupting the morals of a minor.

During the trial, Veralee Dunlap testified on behalf of her husband.

Two of the Dunlap children took the stand and testified. The older girl gave testimony concerning the two incidents when her father performed sexual acts both with her and with her younger sister.

Corrupting the morals of a minor charges were based on nude photographs taken by Dunlap of his children. The police caught up to Dunlap when he took some of the photos to the Canton Township K mart to be processed.

On July 7, Detective Laura Moore, the Westland police officer who first investigated Dunlap, said she was pleased with the verdict, but was still concerned about the children's custody hearing.

"Now we just have to keep them (the children) out of that home," Moore said.

City nets $49,000 credit in lawsuit

By KIM KOESTER
ANP Special Writer

Romulus will receive $49,852.99 from Wayne County to be credited to future assessments as settlement of a legal battle with the office of the Wayne County Drain Commission.

According to Romulus Treasurer Jim Napiorkowski, a credit of $85,715.77 will be issued to various communities in the settlement of the lawsuit which alleged overcharges for the cleaning and maintenance of drains in the respective communities.

All the communities involved, Napiorkowski said, are receiving credit, even those not involved in the legal action. He noted that Romulus might have received the credit without joining in the legal action, as have other communities.

Credit money on the five major drains are: Ecorse Creek Northbranch $1,806.14; Edmonds Creek $23,672.13; Freeman Drain $1,339.56; Sexton Kilfoil $9,775.24; and Shook Drain, $8,306.69. There is also a $5,000 credit for smaller drains, Napiorkowski said.

The final credit was reduced from $101,094.33 to $85,715.77.

According to a letter to John B. Lewkowicz, former Romulus treasurer who pursued the matter as a private citizen from attorney Harry S. Ellman, who won the settlement, "The major reason for the change is that certain overhead charged to the Chapter 20 Drains in the amount of $14,028.05 was erroneously included in the totals related to drains whose maintenance was performed pursuant to Section 196. Section 196 does not govern Chapter 20 maintenance, and thus, the correction."

Lewkowicz pursued the matter as an individual after members of the city council refused to fund the suit. Also, according to the letter, "A further correction of $1,350.51 (minus) resulted from transposition errors by the accountant in the preparation of the initial computer input data. The result is a final credit of $85,715.77."

While the city will receive no actual funds, the credit will be applied to future assessments by the county, Napiorkowski noted.

Arts council chooses works

By KIM KOESTER
ANP Special Writer

The Romulus Arts Council recently selected the 15 pieces of student art to hang in 12 area businesses in the '88-89 school year, as part of the Art in the Workplace program.

The program, finishing up its first year and planning for the next, is "lots of fun," said trustee Alice Kesner. A banquet is now being planned for the end of September or the beginning of October at the local Holiday Inn so the businessmen and students from the present program and next year's program can meet, she said.

The new sponsors will also be able to pick out the piece (or pieces, because some are parts of sets) that they want to hang in their businesses. Kesner said having the business people "meet the student whose art is hanging in their office" at the banquet is important.

Right now they are waiting to get all the release forms back from their young artists, Kesner said. Students ranging from kindergarten to 12th grade are eligible for the program, and art is chosen "that will look nice in a business," not "that looks like it has to belong in the Detroit Institute of Arts," she said.

Some of the business people even prefer art from younger people, she said, because the pieces act as conversation starters at the business.

This year the art was selected by two business people and an council person, she said. More than 400 students' work was exhibited at the art show during Michigan Week, May 20-22.

The program is really great, she said, because while many larger communities have similar programs, Romulus is a smaller community in a larger land area and when elements of the community "actually touch," and cross over, that "touching is a neat experience."

Students of month named

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

More than 400 high school students were recognized as students of the month throughout the last school year and 165 of those students were recipients of $50 saving bonds that were donated by local businesses and sponsors.

"The quality of education at Romulus High School is a concern of every aspect of community life in Romulus," said Assistant Principal Dan Hurst.

According to Hurst, the program was a complete success. "This program, through the support of sponsors, high school staff, and parents, helped motivate and sustain the students' behaviors which are consistent with our expectations and direction," he said.

independent runway are an annual delay reduction of 3,316 hours and $5.1 million. The cost to construct a runway is being developed in the Master Plan Study," the report concluded.

Mike Conway, community relations representative with the airport, stressed that although the fourth parallel runway would necessitate rerouting Wayne Road, "the proposal is years away," and is just a recommendation of the FAA.

Many steps must be taken before the runway could become a reality, Conway said, like environmental and noise impact studies and public meetings so the project could be discussed with the public. Also, airline approval would have to be received since it would fund the project, he said.

The exact site of the runway has not even been picked, he said, which would require engineers. "We have a long way to go before we go to the public with the proposal," Conway said.

Oakes said there are a "couple of different alternatives" of what to do with Wayne Road, like rerouting it or tunneling.

He insisted, however, that the idea "is not very far along," and it is "a little early to speculate" on how the area would be affected. Romulus officials have been aware for months of the report and the recommendations, he said, but there is no schedule for the project.

"If it happens, there will be a direct impact on the road," said Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally. "The county owns the land to either side," she said, and there is now a bend in the road, so she speculated that the road would be straightened and realigned to Warman Road.

Since the master plan has not been approved yet, she said, it "may not happen at all," and she has seen master plans since she entered politics, and she may be "dead and buried before we see what the county will do."

The project "also involves $50 million," she said.

Both she and Oakes said the airport listens to city officials, and McAnally said "we will be accommodated," and will "protect citizens." Also, the runway won't likely cross the road, she said, but simply be in proximity to it.

The land to either side is owned by the county, McAnally said, and Oakes agreed that there would be "little land acquisition," although according to a press release from Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara's office some property acquisition would be necessary.

The airport is one-third of Romulus, "the middle third and impacts on everything we do, driving, sleeping—a dramatic effect," McAnally said.

Although Romulus has a good relationship with the airport, Oakes said, it does have a major impact on the city. He noted that since it is in the middle of Romulus, it disrupts and divides the city, making it harder for the police and fire departments to provide services—"a physical problem."

The airport location also makes marginal some of the areas for residential use, limiting the residential areas mostly to the southwest and northwest.

On the positive side, however, the airport does "listen to our suggestions," he said, and the city is pleased on the whole with its relationship with the airport.

The airport also provides many jobs for the area, and perhaps one-half of Romulus industry is airport-related, estimated Oakes.

"We don't entertain thoughts, we can't eliminate" the airport, he said, "we know it will expand so we try to get the maximum benefit from it."

It is difficult to merge this with the residential needs of the city, Oakes said, but he feels they are succeeding.

Oakes said he believes even if the expansion occurs, the impact would probably be minor on the community.

The effect of the expansion on the businesses of Romulus is unclear. Conway said he believed the businesses would be happy because airport expansion means more people in the area to frequent the business community.

Bill Simonds, president of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce, said he had heard of the expansion, but has not really looked at it yet and does not know how it would affect the business community.

Senior Center trips and programs

The Romulus Senior Center is offering a trip to the Wyandotte annual Art Fair on Friday. The only cost for seniors is $1.50 for transportation and money to buy their own lunch at the fair.

The following Friday, July 22, a van of seniors will go to the Downriver Good Old Days at the Wyandotte Theater. A vintage movie, pop and popcorn are all free for seniors, and the transportation fee is only $1.50.

Seniors are eligible to come to the center to sign up for these and other trips, such as a three-day, two-night trip to Toronto. The Toronto trip has a few seats left for seniors and cost is $239, which is due upon signing up for the trip.

The senior nutrition program is in full swing for the summer, offering full-course hot meals. A donation of $1 is requested, and seniors should call 942-6852 by 1 p.m. of the day before they plan to come in.

School board elects officers

Kenneth Berlinn has been elected president of the Romulus School Board.

Edward Wilkerson has been re-elected vice president, Dan Bales will serve as secretary and Howard Kesner as treasurer of the board.

In other action, the board approved the 1988-89 school year schedule of meetings, and membership in the Michigan Association of School Boards and Michigan High School Athletic Association for the 1988-89 school year. Membership cost is estimated at $5,000.

School board members will meet on the second and fourth Monday of each month for the coming school year, except for the June 12 meeting, which was changed to the 13th of the month.

The official "fourth Friday" membership count showing the number of students in the schools as of June 17 was 5,215, including 2,464 elementary age students, 740 at the junior high school level and 1,416 at the senior high school.

Man arrested in break in

A 26-year-old Westland man has been arrested in connection with the break-in of a residence in Metro Mobile Park.

Edward Disney, who lives near the mobile home park on Van Born Road, was arrested July 8 following an investigation by the Romulus Police Department.

According to police, items which were stolen and subsequently recovered include $500 worth of firearms.

Disney was arraigned July 9 in out-county court and charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling.

He is lodged in the Wayne County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. A preliminary examination is scheduled for July 20 in 34th District Court.

Service station robbed July 12

An unidentified robber walked into the Total service station at Wayne and Ecorse roads July 12 at 7:25 a.m. and announced a stick-up, with his hand in his pocket.

According to Lt. Kenneth Krause, of the Romulus Police Department, the attendant on duty reported that an individual came into the station pretending to make a purchase, and then announced a "stick-up" without producing a weapon.

The suspect, said Krause, kept one hand in his pocket, possibly to infer that a weapon was present.

After receiving a small amount of money from the attendant, the suspect fled on foot.

The suspect, still at large, is described by police as a black male, medium complexion, approximately 25 years of age, five feet, seven inches tall, 160 pounds, short hair, clean shaven, with a light blue warm-up jacket.

Country music has magic touch

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Cecelia Lee and Magic Country brought their brand of "magic music" to the audiences at the Strawberry Festival.

Lee, who has performed at Opryland and served as the opening act for several top country groups, terms her music "a kind of country pop"—a sound she would like to expand with a horn section some day into a funky country format.

Even if the sound changes somewhat, Lee said, the accent will still be on country music.

Lee began playing the guitar at the age of 8 when a girlfriend in Colorado introduced her to the instrument. Her first appearances were in churches and for senior citizens. At the age of 11, Lee learned to play the banjo and two years later started playing with a band. At 14 she made a trip to Nashville to make a recording, and continued to learn to play a variety of instruments.

She has recorded five singles, one of which, "Footsteps," was rated 88 on the Cashbox charts.

According to Lee, there is no history of musicians in her family. Her father is a retired chemistry teacher, her mother is a librarian and her older sister is a teacher.

Lee was the opening act for Ronnie Milsap and Gary Morris in her early career and also has appeared as an opener for shows starring Johnny Cash, Loretta Lynn, The Kendalls, Steve Warner, Brenda Lee and Porter Wagoner.

Magic Country includes Tom Sutphen, keyboard and backup singer; Kipp Galloway, drummer, and Kim Cramer, who plays bass and guitar "and a little bit of everything," according to Lee.

Cities protest authority plan

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Two more cities have joined forces with three downriver communities threatening to file a lawsuit prohibiting the Peoples Community Hospital Authority from reorganizing.

Both Southgate and Lincoln Park have joined Melvindale, River Rouge and Ecorse in opposition to legislation approved recently by both houses of the state legislature.

House Bill 5755, passed unanimously June 20 by members of the state House of Representatives and by the Senate 30-1 on June 30, would allow the PCHA to reorganize and transfer all assets to a private non-profit corporation. Presently, the bill is on Gov. James Blanchard's desk where it is expected to be signed by July 13.

If Blanchard signs the bill into law, PCHA would dismantle and become United Care, Inc., a name approved by PCHA board members. Bylaws and articles of incorporation for the new agency have already been drafted and approved.

But, several local city officials are opposed to the recent decisions on the bill and plan to stop it from becoming law.

Melvindale Mayor Thomas Coogan said he has sent a letter to Blanchard requesting that he veto the legislation. He also said the city has asked Sen. George Hart (D-Dearborn) to send a questionnaire with specific questions about the bill to Attorney General Frank Kelley.

"I think everybody is astounded by how quick it was put through. It went too quick. It's too big of an item to fool around," Coogan said. "I won't be pleased until (the lawsuit) materializes so we do have something to put our hats on."

If assets are transferred, it is estimated the taxpayer will save about $6 a year on a $60,000 home. But, Coogan calculated, residents of his community have invested as much as $1 million in the PCHA, an organization Coogan said is worth between $300 and $500 million. Neighboring communities Ecorse and River Rouge have contributed between $4 and $5 million each, he estimated.

On July 5, the city council in Southgate approved a resolution to file a lawsuit against the PCHA. The city of Lincoln Park made a similar move.

"They made the motion to go along with us and voice their outrage and would like to file a lawsuit," said Coogan.

At the Southgate City Council meeting, City Administrator

Terrence Jarvis said three issues were identified in the resolution.

- The issues named were:
- A letter be sent to Gov. Blanchard that the bill not be signed;
- The city council opposes the sale of any assets of the PCHA without the development of proper procedures which allow for the distribution of profit to the sale and

- That it does empower the city join a lawsuit if necessary.

"My feeling is that the profit should be distributed to the cities involved," Jarvis said. "I think this will be a long road now." The House and Senate passed it too quickly.

The next actions, Jarvis said, will be the monitoring of the situation.

On the legal side, Melvindale City Attorney Dennis Luke also concluded the actions would be monitored closely.

THE PAP SMEAR—AN EXCELLENT
DIAGNOSTIC TOOL
By Charles T. Cash, M.D.
Did you know that cervical cancer was the leading cause of death from cancer among women as recently as 40 years ago?
Thanks to a doctor named George Papanicolaou, who developed a safe and simple test called the Pap Smear, the number of deaths as a result of cervical cancer has been reduced by more than 50 percent.
This almost painless procedure, which is part of any normal gynecological exam, is your best method of detection for the prevention of this disease.
Because of this screening technique, specialists trained in examining cells are able to evaluate them and offer more thorough exams to further diagnose and treat any abnormal condition if any exists.
WHO COULD BE AT HIGH RISK?
If you are a member of one of the following groups, you are more likely to develop cancer of the cervix:
• Women whose regular sexual activity begins before age 20; and
• Women who have multiple sexual partners.
Developing cancer of the cervix doesn't mean that it can't be treated. If it is caught in its early stages, it is a highly curable disease. That's why the Pap Smear is so important.

Jail plan deserves support at polls

It's time that steps are taken to close the revolving door at the Wayne County Jail.

During the past two years, some 4,000 prisoners have been released from the jail for lack of space — a situation which has placed 4,000 accused and convicted criminals on the streets of Wayne County and which will continue to release an additional 100 prisoners each month if not remedied.

Criminologists tell us that the certainty of punishment is a major deterrent to those contemplating criminal acts. If so, our present system might be viewed as an encouragement to would-be criminals. Be assured, whether or not the average Wayne County resident is aware of the sentencing practices of the courts, those "on the streets" are well aware that they will serve little or no time for all but the most serious offenses.

Wayne County is the only county in the nation in which convicted misdemeanants are virtually never jailed because there are no cells available. Not only are there no jail cells for those convicted of misdemeanors, but the revolving door also swings open for felons — placing them on the streets months before their sentences are served.

Wayne County voters are being asked to approve a 1 mill, 10-year ballot proposal for the construction and operation of adult incarceration and juvenile detention facilities. We believe that the plan for the new facilities, which was proposed by Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, is a sound one and we support its approval by the voters.

McNamara's plan, not only calls for the building of a new jail, but includes the goal of making the minimum security facility the model for the country. The plan places emphasis on rehabilitative programs which include the following: educational programs, vocational training, a link-up with Gov. James Blanchard's Job Opportunity Card program and work crews to serve in the community.

Approval of the Aug. 2 millage for adult and youth incarceration can stop the prisoner releases and provide rehabilitation programs which can reduce prison costs in the long run. It can also help to create the type of community where people will feel comfortable in locating their business or residence.

According to McNamara, the county is at a crossroad where a decision must be made by the voters. If the release of nearly 100 accused and sentenced criminals each month is a condition that the people of Wayne County want to live with, then the voters need not approve the tax proposal. If, however, the voters feel that it is unacceptable to allow those 100 prisoners to go through the revolving door of the Wayne County Jail, then they must vote for the millage increase.

We believe that if county residents are taking the crime crisis seriously, anti-crime efforts need to be supported, not only verbally, but financially.

Wayne County residents must be willing to pay the costly charges involved in incarcerating those who are endangering the safety of the community. If they are not willing to foot the bill, the criminals will be back on the streets — your streets and my street, not just the streets of the inner city.

Answers needed

Residents of Van Buren Township, as well as people in neighboring western Wayne County communities, need answers to their questions regarding the potential health hazards of landfills located in their area.

At a public hearing, conducted prior to the relicensing of a landfill located in Van Buren Township, a long list of questions and concerns were read into the public record by township residents. Above all, these citizens and their elected representatives want answers to their concerns about potential health hazards.

What is the real story behind the allegations that a radium-contaminated load was approved, although never accepted? What is the cause of "unbearable odors" which emanate from the dump during the late night and early morning hours? Has dioxin been illegally received at the landfill?

These questions deserve answers from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the sponsor of the public hearing, as well as from the state EPA and Michigan Department of Health. Over and over, governmental agencies have told local officials that they do not have the funds nor manpower to adequately monitor the landfills — a responsibility which they are mandated to perform.

One public official seems to have a logical plan to fund the monitoring of area landfills — assess a fee on each load to cover the cost of appropriate inspections. Unless the state can come up with a better plan to fund the monitoring of landfills and the investigation of pending allegations, we believe the plan to assess each load has merit and should be given consideration.

In the meantime, we hope the appropriate agencies will begin to answer the questions that have been posed to them. The people have a right to know.

Candidate defends campaign position

In response to a letter written by Kent Buikema, executive director of the Plymouth-Canton schools secondary education, whose letter of June 29, challenging my facts that 73 percent of Plymouth-Canton 10th-graders failed the Michigan Educational Assessment Program test in science. A test, by the way, which measures "essential performance objectives" in science (Source: Douglas R. Roberts, deputy superintendent of public instruction, MEAP handbook).

I maintain that Buikema represents the school district's attitude of deceitfulness and total failure to be honest with the public. Any simpleton could interpret those facts. I received my facts from the Michigan Department of Education, which corrected the test.

Furthermore, the Michigan Department of Education interpreted the test results and rated each school in its need to improve. The ratings are high needs, moderate needs or low needs to improve. The 10th-grade program was rated with "high needs to improve." That is not Mary Dahn's interpretation, it is the Michigan Department of Education's assessment.

Buikema stated that "the design, organization and expectation of the Plymouth-Canton curriculum remains different from many of the items tested." Think of what this man is saying.

Either more than 1,000 Michigan educators who created the test, who were both college professors and high school science teachers were wrong about what the science curriculum should contain or Buikema is an inept, overpaid bureaucrat who is designing a low-tech science curriculum for a high-tech world.

How can this man collect his paycheck every month with a clear conscience? How about 73 percent of the 10th-graders who can not pass a science test and do not have basic skills in science?

All the letters to the editor and unprincipled demagoguery won't help them.

Recycling is answer to solid waste woes

Each day, tons of garbage are produced by the citizens. It is my theory that used items can be put to use and help nature, instead of destroying it, as we are doing it today.

There are recycling buildings you can use or in a few days have people put up a building and attach a machine to recycle empty cardboard boxes.

First step.

City golf championship deadline set

Fellows Creek is host for 29th Annual Summer Classic

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It didn't take long for the news to spread. Entries for the 1988 City Golf Championship Invitational have been pouring into the Associated Newspapers offices.

The quick response by local golfers prompted William Hawley, tournament manager, to set a deadline for registration in the 29th annual classic which is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 6-7 at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton Township.

"This summer classic has always attracted an excellent field," said Hawley. "And since we are limited to the number of competitors, we are urging all those who want to play this year to sign up as soon as possible."

"Moreover, we are going to have to set a deadline so that we have some actual numbers to go by for tee times."

Hawley set the registration deadline for 5 p.m., Friday, July 29. All golfers who wish to compete in the tournament must have their entry forms and $37 greens fees submitted by that date. Checks (or money orders) should be made out to Bill Hawley,

This summer golf classic is one of the highlights of the local season. We usually draw some of the top amateur golfers in the area, and those who have competed usually come back again and again.

tournament manager, and mailed (or dropped off) to The Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, MI.

The tournament, in its 29th year, brings together amateur male golfers from the cities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Romulus, Garden City, and Canton Township who will simultaneously be competing for the city (township) titles for their respective communities.

The tournament is sponsored by the Associated Newspapers and the parks of recreation of the participating communities.

The tournament is designed to select the low five scorers from each of the communities who will be eligible to compete in the Michigan Parks and Recreation state tournament. (The site and date of the state tournament will be announced at a later date). All other golfers will become alternatives in order of their finish.

The golfers will also be swinging for trophies, awarded to the top three finishers in each of the flights. Additional flights will be organized only if the total number of golfers from a particular community warrants it.

A championship trophy for the overall tournament will be awarded to the medalist (low scorer).

In case of a tie for a trophy, a "sudden death playoff will be conducted to determine the eventual winner of the trophy."

Wayne golfers will also be competing for the Patrolman Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy. Anderson, an outstanding athlete

Sports Bench wins crown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With their first major softball tournament title safely stashed away in their trophy case, Taylor Sports Bench travels to the Michigan Metro Qualifying Tournament this weekend in hopes of earning a berth for the mid-west playoffs.

Laden with Romulus softball talent, Sports Bench got an sterling all-around effort from Michele Scarrow. Scarrow hammered two homers and walked once against Compuware to spark the champs' assault.

Her first homer came in the second inning, a two-run blast that gave winning pitcher Michelle Ferguson what proved to be enough runs to win the title. Scarrow's second roundtripper was a sixth-inning solo blast.

Ferguson went the distance, pitched a three-hitter, walked four while carding an equal number of strikeouts. She also received ample hitting support from Stacy Bogataj, who drilled two hits in three appearances at the plate, and Kim Hoppes, who also went two for three.

The victory padded Sports Bench's overall record for the campaign to 20-1.

In the first round of the playoffs, Sports Bench blanked Compuware's junior club 15-0 as Jennifer Daniel surfaced with the shutout. She struck out nine and walked three. She also helped her own cause as she banged out two hits in four trips, scored twice and also knocked in two runs. Teammate Andrea Young had a perfect two for two day while Sarah Mason chipped in with two hits (in two appearances), had two RBIs and scored twice. The game was cut short because of the "mercy rule" (a 10-run advantage) after five innings.

Tourney champs

The next to learn why Sports Bench is considered one of the finest girls' softball teams in the state this year was Lapeer County, which wound up on the tailend of a 11-5 decision as pitcher Lynda Weichel turned in a three-hitter. She also whiffed seven and walked two.

With Scarrow hitting a hefty .489 on the season, the local softballers met their archrivals, Compuware, for the first time in the tournament in the quarterfinals and subdued them 7-3 as Ferguson fired a four-hitter, struck out four and walked six.

Scarrow belted two hit hits in the fourth and sixth innings that paved the way for the Sports Bench to break the game open.

She also scored two runs and had two RBIs. Daniel went 2 for three, including a triple and two RBIs.

The champs also posted an 8-3 victory over Wilmette, Ill as Daniel chalked up the victory with a three-hitter. She fanned four and walked two and helped her own cause with a perfect two for two. Bogataj chipped in with a pair of run-scoring singles and scored twice, while teammate Brenda Gateman made her one hit count for two RBIs.

Richmond Little Caesar's discovered that they were no match for the champs as they fell 15-3 and Lapeer Sims surrendered 13-2.

Anderson stage readied

Belleville eyes softball crown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Some of the top softball teams in the state, including teams from Belleville, Wayne and Westland, will clash later this month at the prestigious Leonard J. Anderson Memorial Softball Tournament.

The tournament will be conducted beginning at 6 p.m. Friday, July 29 at Anderson Field in Wayne. Some 16 teams have been entered in this year's tournament which is again sponsored by the city of Wayne Parks and Recreation Department.

"We have some of the best teams in the state coming here to play," noted Larry Quartuccio, tournament director. "There are some clubs which have earned national recognition."

The defending champ, Gorilla Engines is returning and seeking to make it three tournament championships in a row, a feat that has never been accomplished in the 12 year history of the tournament.

The field includes: Morris Inc., the hosts (Westland), Schewe's Collision (Flat Rock), National Trails (Southfield), Stottiles Auto Parts (Newport), Canton Sports (Oak Park), and The Roxy (Belleville).

Also entered are Wimstatt Building/Al's Market (Wayne), Deckmasters (Westland), Paddy's Pub/Van Tech (Westland), Manitowoc Ice Machines (Redford), Law Auto Sales (Redford), New World (Dearborn Heights), Malarkeys (Westland), Station Lounge (Wayne).

There is no admission charge.

National Trails Softball from Southfield and Manitowoc Ice from Redford could be the teams to keep your eyes focused on,

For softball fans, this tournament will be one of the best they can attend all summer. You have a lot of outstanding teams coming to town.

— Larry Quartuccio Tournament manager

according to Quartuccio.

"I believe they have the overall talent to win this year's tournament and stop Gorilla's from repeating for an unprecedented third straight time," he added.

However, Quartuccio is quick to stress that "almost any one of these teams can surface as the champ. Any one is capable of winning it all."

The tournament champ also will be presented with a berth in the United States Slow Pitch Association's divisional championships which will be conducted in Rockford, Ill. later this summer for Class B teams. There is also a berth available for the Class C divisional championships to be conducted in Sterling Heights later this season.

The Anderson Tournament has an additional attraction in that there is a "Home Run Derby", scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, July 30.

"For local and area softball fans, this is one of the biggest tournaments that they have an opportunity to attend," Quartuccio said. "They shouldn't miss it."

North Stars draft local hockey talent

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Mike Modano spent two years at Livonia Franklin High School. But instead of returning for his junior year, the Westland resident packed his bags and decided to follow a dream.

And on June 11, that dream quickly became reality.

Modano was the first player chosen in the NHL entry draft by the Minnesota North Stars this year. The 6-foot, 2-inch Westland resident hasn't signed a contract yet, but when he does he will certainly be changing tax brackets.

But the money, which should reach in excess of $1 million per year, is secondary to the thrill and challenge of playing against the best hockey players in the world.

"When I was 13, I decided that I wanted to play professional hockey," said Modano. "But I never expected to be the first player chosen."

Modano, a high scoring center, is only the second American-born player in the history of the NHL draft to be chosen first. The North Stars, coincidentally, selected the other American, Brian Lawton, in 1983.

Lawton has not lived up to the high expectations that go along with being the first player chosen. And living in the Detroit area, Modano is well aware of the criticism of the Red Wings first pick in the 1986 draft, Joe Murphy.

"I think a lot of people in Minnesota are going to compare me to Brian," said Modano. "But it's something I can't concern myself with or control."

Lou Nanne, president of the North Stars, said what has happened with Lawton didn't influence the selection.

"We look at each player as individuals," said Nanne, who is also expecting big things from Modano. But he isn't expecting his top draft pick to make the all-star team his first year.

"We didn't draft Mike for one month or one year," he said. "We drafted him for the long term. It will be up to the staff to determine if he plays in the NHL this year or if he needs more time to develop."

But there is little question that Modano has the ability to spend a lot of time in the NHL.

"If his intensity is equal to his ability he will be in the league for a long time," said Nanne. "He is a highly skilled player who has excellent change of speed and shoots the puck as well as anyone. We are pleased he's a North Star."

Modano, 18, is also the second youngest player ever to be selected number one overall. For most his age, something like this could easily change a person, and there is no doubt that he will be affected some way.

But he seems to be taking it all in stride. He talks with confidence, but he also talks of the hard work that lies ahead of him. He knows the North Stars will do everything they can for him, but he also knows it's up to him to produce.

"They have already told me that I will start the season in Minnesota," he said. "I think they will bring me along slow, but I'd like to play the whole year up there."

"Right now I just want to make the team and start making a name for myself."

Modano has spent the past two years in Canada. In his rookie year in the Western Hockey League, he was chosen rookie of the year and last year he racked up some pretty impressive numbers.

Teams needed for Sims Invitational

The countdown has begun for the second annual Johnnie A. Sims Memorial Softball Invitational.

Sponsored by the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department, the tournament is in honor of Sims, who was an outstanding Inkster High athlete and a devoted softball fan.

Sims was slain during a brawl in the city over a year ago.

"We will have a field of some 32 teams competing in this, the second annual invitational," said Ruth E. Williams, recreation director and tournament manager. "However, it isn't too late to sign up for the tournament. We are still accepting registration."

The tournament will be staged three days beginning on July 15, 16 and 17 on local park diamonds. The tournament is open to men's slow-pitch teams. Players must be 18 or older.

There is a $100 registration fee and team managers should contact Williams at the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department (728-7530). The department is located at 2025 Middlebelt, approximately a quarter-of-a mile north of Michigan Ave.

pressive numbers for his Prince Albert junior team.

During the 65-game schedule, Modano contributed with 47 goals and 80 assists for 127 points. He also left Canada with a high school diploma from Carlton High School.

"I wanted to play a longer season," said Modano, explaining why he moved. "It's a better league and it gave me a chance to develop my skills and become a better hockey player."

Modano joins a list of area Detroit players who have been taken in the first round of the NHL draft. Pat Lafontaine of Waterford was selected by the New York Islanders and Jimmy Carson of Grosse Pointe was chosen by the Los Angeles Kings.

Both Lafontaine and Carson have contributed in their early years to their respective teams. And in the eyes of a lot of North Star fans, Modano will be looked at to do the same.

Minnesota is considered a big hockey state. They draw very well at the gate and they have a tradition of competitive hockey teams. But last year was a different story.

The North Stars, who ended up near the bottom in attendance, were not happy with owning the worst record in the NHL last season. As a result, they fired their general manager and coach during the summer and the names of several Minnesota players have been mentioned in trade rumors.

But Nanne and the rest of his staff has made changes to try and remedy the situation.

"They are definitely in a rebuilding stage," said Modano, who is the player the organization has chosen to build around.

Inkster boasts the tournament's defending champ, Kevin Ryan, who shot a blistering 67 in the first round then returned for a 70 for a 36-hole total of 137 last year at Fellows Creek. He also is the defending city champ for Inkster.

Other defending city champs include Mark Morton (Wayne), who was also the Anderson Memorial Trophy winner a year ago; Earl Kent (Westland), Matt Wiley (Canton Township), David Daniels (Romulus), Richard Hunter (Garden City).

Golfers play 18 holes on the first day and return for the championship round for another 18-holes the following day.

Golfers who need further information should contact Tom Mooradian or Terry Jacoby, staff writers, at the Associated Newspapers from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Telephone 729-4000.

School success depends on Rover

One very frequent question we are asked regarding our training classes is: Do you guarantee my dog will be trained by the end of the session?

Our answer is brief and to the point: If you do your homework. We can guarantee the method we teach is proper and will work. We cannot guarantee that once the student leaves our school he will follow our instructions. So, if he doesn't do his homework and spend time training his dog in the commands taught that week, how will his dog learn?

People tend to be skeptical that certain methods of training will actually work until they see the results in their own dog. Many students pretend they work their dog during the interval from one lesson to another, but the moment they walk into the training room the second week of class, it is obvious which student actually did his homework and which one did not. Dog behavior doesn't lie. Human nature being what it is forces people to hide the truth rather than admit they're spending money for lessons

dan's dogs

they're not practicing. I've said this repeatedly, beginners obedience is first people training and, second, dog training.

People enroll in class because the dog is a problem. The dog doesn't phone for an appointment. The dog doesn't have the problem, so it must be people training. We teach the person what to do and how to do it. The dog doesn't worry whether he's performing on command - the person does! Later, when a bond is built between owner and dog, we end up having to encourage the owner to show some amount of excitement when the dog does perform, because by that time the dog looks forward to and strives to perform. When someone enrolls in any type of class, be it ceramics, a computer course or even ballroom dancing, they have to practice in order to perfect that craft. The same is true for practicing with your dog the lessons taught in dog obedience class. Practice does make perfect. Students come into the classroom (usually this happens the third week) with dozens of questions because their dog won't perform a particular command or perhaps an annoying bad habit on the dog's part hasn't miraculously disappeared - and after all of three lessons! The answer is: The bad habit took weeks or even months to develop. It is not going to disappear overnight. Give your dog time to learn.

We comprehend the English language; our dog does not. He understands our language phonetically. So, in essence we should be the faster learner. Yet properly taught, the dog learns fastest.

Again, I can guarantee the dog will learn what is taught him, provided his owner follows instructions. Because so many people challenge the techniques taught in class and fail to do their homework, I often wonder if the person or the dog is paying for the lesson.

Basketball program set

SEVERAL SUMMER SPORTS camps will be sponsored by Schoolcraft College and are scheduled to begin soon. An advanced soccer players camp is scheduled to begin Monday, July 11 and end Friday, July 15 at Schoolcraft College. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The cost will be $130 per person. Additional family members will receive a discount of $25. A volleyball camp is open for boys and girls age 14 and older and is set from July 11 through 14. An advanced session is scheduled for July 25 through 28. All classes will be 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Thursday. Cost will be $65 per session. Two summer soccer schools are being offered this year. Session one is set for Monday, July 25 through Friday, July 30. Session two is set for Monday, Aug. 1 through Friday, Aug. 6. All classes will be 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., with the last hour open for swimming. There will be no more than 10 players per coach, and each participant will receive a written evaluation upon completion of the course. The cost will be $80 per session or $140 for both sessions. Additional family members receive a 20-percent discount. For additional information on any of the sports camps offered by Schoolcraft College, call 591-6400, ext. 480.

on the sidelines

THE CANTON PARKS

and Recreation Department will offer a Pepsi-NBA basketball competition for boys and girls age 18 and younger. Boys and girls from three different age groups, 9 through 12, 13 through 15 and 16 through 18, will participate in two more competitions: Monday, July 18, at Hulsing Elementary; and Wednesday, July 20, also at Hulsing. Winners in each age division will represent Canton in further competitions. Participants can compete at one or all of the sites. Registration will be staged the day of the event at the designated site. The event is free.

ALL CATS, DOGS, fish, small barnyard animals, exotic pets and birds are invited to compete in a pet show, sponsored by the Canton Country Festival and the Canton Parks and Recreation Department. Of course, the animals must be chaperoned. Animals will be able to win in various categories including the most unusual pet, most colorful pet, most talented pet, best dressed pet, best groomed pet and the traditional "pet with the longest tail" contest. Tournament set in Belleville

ANP Staff Writer

Some of the top softball teams in the state, including teams from Belleville, Wayne and Westland, will clash later this month at the prestigious Leonard J. Anderson Memorial Softball Tournament.

The tournament will be conducted beginning at 6 p.m. Friday, July 29 at Anderson Field in Wayne. Some 16 teams have been entered in this year's tournament which is again sponsored by the city of Wayne Parks and Recreation Department.

"We have some of the best teams in the state coming here to play," noted Larry Quartuccio, tournament director. "There are some clubs which have earned national recognition."

The defending champ, Gorilla Engines is returning and seeking to make it three tournament championships in a row, a feat that has never been accomplished in the 12 year history of the tournament.

The field includes: Morris Inc., the hosts (Westland), Schewe's Collision (Flat Rock), National Trails (Southfield), Stottles Auto Parts (Newport), Canton Sports (Oak Park), and The Roxy (Belleville).

Also entered are Wimstatt Building/Al's Market (Wayne), Deckmasters (Westland), Paddy's Pub/Van Tech (Westland), Manitowoc Ice Machines (Redford), Law Auto Sales (Redford), New World (Dearborn Heights), Malarkeys (Westland), Station Lounge (Wayne).

There is no admission charge.

National Trails Softball from Southfield and Manitowoc Ice from Redford could be the teams to keep your eyes focused on, according to Quartuccio.

"I believe they have the overall talent to win this year's tournament and stop Gorilla's from repeating for an unprecedented third straight time," he added.

However, Quartuccio is quick to stress that "almost any one of these teams can surface as the champ. Any one is capable of winning it all."

The tournament champ also will be presented with a berth in the United States Slow Pitch Association's divisional championships which will be conducted in Rockford, Ill. later this summer for Class B teams. There is also a berth available for the Class C divisional championships to be conducted in Sterling Heights later this season.

The Anderson Tournament has an additional attraction in that there is a "Home Run Derby", scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, July 30.

"For local and area softball fans, this is one of the biggest tournaments that they have an opportunity to attend," Quartuccio said. "They shouldn't miss it."

Fundamentals

Xavier Mootry, 12, takes a jump shot against Marquis Scott, 10, during a basketball camp at Wayne Memorial High School. The two-week camp was conducted by Wayne Coach Chuck Henry who stressed fundamentals to the area youngsters. Henry (left photo) and his staff taught youngsters ballhandling, shooting, passing and defense during the camp which was attended by boys and girls in grades 5-12. Stan Hill (above) spent part of the June 29 session working on his free throw shooting. ANP photos by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

PART ONE IN A THREE PART SERIES

A look at the district court system

The 18th District Court is now in session. The honorable Gail McKnight presiding. McKnight has been serving as a district court judge since January 1985. Each day since then she has sat at the bench watching countless citizens cope with the legal system.

McKnight emphasizes courteous behavior to all participants in her courtroom and attempts to educate participants in legal matters.

The week for McKnight begins with felony cases and some drunken driving cases.

"Cases are docketed every day based on when certain people are available," she said. "On Monday we have the county prosecutor so we deal with felony cases."

On Mondays, McKnight might hear a sexual assault case or a preliminary hearing on a murder.

The sessions are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., but as McKnight has learned, delays are to be expected.

"You never have 100 percent control of the case flow," said McKnight. That is one of her great frustrations.

McKnight said if one of the principals is late, her court officers try to persuade the other participants to wait around because if they don't, the whole case has to be rescheduled.

People are usually willing to wait, McKnight said, as long as they are treated appropriately.

If by 10 a.m. the suspect in any type of case, who might have been released on bond, does not show up, an arrest warrant is issued.

When all the players are gathered in the courtroom, McKnight takes her place at the bench and all of her gestures, looks and words will be judged by those she is elected to judge.

McKnight said body language is very important in the courtroom and she is very conscious of the emotions her body is projecting.

While hearing felony cases in which the defendant might be dangerous, courtesy is the tool McKnight uses to keep things under control.

"When a defendant acts up or there is that potential I treat them courteously and they usually respond to that," McKnight said. "There is nothing like common courtesy as a power tool, it's how I control my courtroom."

The courtroom players are provided with plenty of information before they ever step foot in the courtroom. McKnight said this helps make them feel less intimidated.

The defendants will be told exactly what their rights in the courtroom are and what the judge might ask them.

"If people understand the rules, they can usually live with the penalty," McKnight said.

Workers at the 18th District Court have prepared several pieces of literature for those involved in courtroom proceedings. They are careful, however, not to cross the bridge and provide legal advice.

Sometimes children are called to the stand as witnesses and they demand a certain type of treatment, McKnight said.

As a former participant in juvenile court, McKnight is perhaps better prepared for these situations than many judges.

A child witness is not issued the same oath as other witnesses, rather the judge talks with the child to determine if he knows the difference between a truth and a lie and asks them to promise to tell the truth.

"Actually I would like to see the guidelines used for children applied to everyone," McKnight said.

Young people are permitted to have a support person next to them, but that person is not permitted to speak. Attorneys are also expected to treat children in a more sensitive way, posing questions on a level they can understand.

While McKnight presides over the preliminary hearing in felony cases, an actual decision will be rendered by a jury in another court. It is McKnight's job in this situation to decide if there is enough evidence for the defendant to stand trial on the charges.

McKnight's weeks are pretty well set as to the types of cases she will hear on a particular day, but there are always small disruptions to the schedule.

"Our docket is what we expect to see, there are plenty of walk-ins however that we didn't expect," McKnight said.

Some walk-ins are people who were arrested the previous day and must be formally charged within 24 hours or they must be released.

The more frustrating walk-in, McKnight said, is the person who neglected to follow-up on a traffic ticket when they were supposed to.

McKnight said she has seen cases when a person has come in six years after receiving a traffic violation. She said she is usually fairly lenient with them because they are obviously not repeat offenders.

McKnight said she is fascinated by the people she sees in her court every day. The defendants, the attorneys, the witnesses, they all intrigue her.

She is saddened to see that there is a recurring problem that seems to exist in the majority of the cases which come before her.

"Mental health and substance abuse problems flow through the docket," she said. Nearly all cases can be traced to one of these problems.

The judge is frustrated not only by scheduling problems, but by the lack of jail space. She said there are plenty of people she would lockup hoping to teach the defendant a lesson, but she must consider carefully the cost to the community and the availability of jail space.

McKnight however said the satisfaction she get from her job far outweighs the frustrations.

ANNIVERSARIES

La Fave — 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. La Fave, of Gaylord, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary July 2 with a dinner party given by their children.

The event was staged at the Senior Friendship Center, in Westland, July 10.

The two have six children, 21 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

NEW ARRIVALS

Sara Roebuck

Terry and Rose Roebuck, of Wayne, are enjoying the "new arrival" of their fourth child, Sara Renee, born at 8:08 a.m. April 21 at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

The infant made her debut weighing in at 8 pounds, 12 ounces and measuring 21 1/2 inches.

She is the new sister of Amy, 11, Brian, 9, and Kelly, 2; the new granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, of Chicago Heights, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Roebuck, of Wayne; and the new great-granddaughter of Mrs. J.B. Evans, of Wayne, and Mrs. Hilda Isaacs, of Fort Wayne, Ind.

County Fair prepares for week of fun

Children attending the Wayne County Fair this year will have a host of fulfilled events awaiting them.

Several games are scheduled for the kids this year, according to Margaret Leskosky, Wayne County 4-H Club agent. Events such as relays and obstacle courses have been scheduled for 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. Thursday, July 21.

Also on Thursday will be children's day. Children 18 and younger will be admitted to the fairgrounds free of charge. The gate fee is regularly $2. Also on this day, children 18 and younger can pay just $8 and can enjoy the rides all day at the carnival.

Kids of all ages will be able to join in the Wayne County Fair/4-H Talent Show, set for 2 p.m. Thursday.

"The talent show will be open to anybody. They sing, dance, mime and do just about anything. It's a pretty popular event," Leskosky said.

Fierce competitors who enjoy sloppy events can participate in the annual watermelon-eating contest. Children of all ages are again invited to become the next watermelon-eating king or queen.

At 8 and 8:30 a.m., children can participate — or just watch — the open-class rabbit show and the open horse show. Children can bring pets if they like.

From 1 to 3 p.m. Thursday, kids can enjoy laughter and excitement when the 4-H clowns set foot on the fairgrounds. The main attraction will be Bingo the Clown, a joy to all the kids, Leskosky noted.

Later that day, kids can participate in dairy goat milking at 4 p.m. At 6 p.m., the 4-H sponsored large- and small-animal livestock auction will be staged. Farm-raised and grain-fed livestock will be auctioned, with proceeds going to help the Wayne County 4-H Club.

Probably one of the most popular children events of the fair will be staged at 6 p.m. Tuesday, July 19. At this time, the 4-H king and queen will be crowned.

"This is usually a popular event. There usually are a lot of people that enter this contest. In this contest, only 4-H'ers are eligible to participate. In the contest, they write an essay about their best and most memorable 4-H event," Leskosky said.

Ages of the new kings and queens usually vary, with winners generally being between the ages of 15 and 18. Contest winners each receive a ribbon and the honor or reigning over the fair.

willert

As loyal readers no doubt realize, this weekend will mark the wedding of our Managing Editor Ray Day to his beloved Debbie Hall. Debbie, woman of the 80s that she is, has not yet discovered any merit in the mastering of culinary skills. According to Ray, the thing Debbie makes best for dinner is reservations. And, she likes it that way.

As a wedding gift to Ray, I've found a recipe this week that I think even Debbie with her limited experience could master and serve to impress both family and friends scheduled to be entertained following the honeymoon.

Personally, I admire Debbie tremendously. Here is a woman who is planning on using the oven for a planter and storing her lingerie in the kitchen cabinets and drawers, which should be interesting when Ray wanders into the kitchen looking for a midnight snack.

Anyone clever enough to avoid the sometimes unrewarding drudgery of the kitchen as Debbie has certainly gets top marks from me. Ray, however, has suggested that perhaps Debbie might try reading this column and the interviews with local cooks offering tips to culinary novices.

He's gone so far as to "borrow" his mother's encyclopedic cookbook which begins by offering instructions on the boiling of water. Debbie, he informed me, stuck the book in a closet...underneath his sports equipment and souvenirs from high school.

This is one smart woman.

At any rate, should she, or any other new bride or less-than-expert cook be interested in a terrific and easy dessert, here's a wedding gift from me to her, and to growling-stomached young grooms everywhere.

PAVLOVA

4 egg whites at room temperature
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon white vinegar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 Tablespoon cornstarch

Preheat oven to 250 degrees. Beat egg whites until they begin to hold their shape. Gradually add sugar, beating constantly, until egg whites are thick and glossy. Fold in vinegar, vanilla and cornstarch. Mound meringue on a cookie sheet in a circle, indenting with the back of a spoon, making it bowl-shaped. Bake for 1 1/2 hours at 250 degrees, turn oven off, and allow meringue to dry out in cooling oven. Place meringue on a serving plate.

Filling

2 cups heavy whipping cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup powdered sugar

Whip the ice cold cream in a chilled bowl with electric mixer continuously until soft peaks form. Add vanilla and continue mixing, gradually adding confectioners sugar.

Place cold whipped cream in meringue and top with fresh fruit in season.

Pennsylvania Dutch

Fine Old Recipes

Recipes with a German accent

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Roberta McElhaney cooks with a Pennsylvania Dutch flair—even if the foods she is preparing are not always of the traditional German variety.

True to her heritage, the Romulus resident prepares simple foods with an accent on fresh or home-canned vegetables, hearty meat dishes, a light touch of spices and a delicious dessert to crown the meal.

As a youngster growing up in Pennsylvania, Roberta learned to cook the cabbage dishes and beans favored by her "Orange Irish" father and the breads and boiled dinners favored by her Pennsylvania Dutch (German) mother. Today, she cooks meals aimed at pleasing her husband, Jerry; seventeen-year-old son, Larry, and father-in-law, Walter McElhaney, plus another son, Franklin when he is home on leave from the service.

"I like to make as many things from scratch as possible," she said, "and I also try to use a light touch with salt, fats and spices to make the foods more healthy and more easily digestible."

Roberta McElhaney likes to be creative in the kitchen, but "I still keep things simple." When she comes up with just the right mix of ingredients to please her family, she calls a halt to further experimentation and sticks with the "tried and true."

For example, she said, she tried dozens of variations of her chili recipe until she found just the right combination of ingredients.

"My husband told me that my chili never tasted the same twice until I finally found the right combination. Now that I've found the right taste, I make the same kind of chili all the time," she said. "Of course, I even have a few variations on that basic recipe."

Roberta also guarantees she can turn liver-haters into liver-lovers when they learn the secrets of properly preparing it. First, she washes the liver thoroughly with cold water and then places it in either salt water or water with a bit of lemon juice "to take out the bitter flavor" that often accompanies liver. Next, she dredges the liver in a mixture of flour, salt and pepper (omitting the salt if one is on a low-salt diet) and places it in a cast iron or stainless steel skillet in which one-eighth to one-fourth inch of oil has been added. The liver is browned on both sides over low to medium heat and then removed from the skillet. She then wipes the skillet and places one-half stick of margarine in it and melts it over low heat. She slices or chops enough onions to fill the bottom of the pan and sautes them until they are a light, golden brown. Then she places the liver back into the skillet and finishes cooking it—only a few minutes from start to finish. She serves the liver with boiled potatoes in their jackets (unpeeled) and fresh or home-canned green beans.

Her secret for tasty liver—whether it is calf, beef, baby beef or pork—is the initial washing and soaking in salt water plus cooking it quickly. Those who claim to hate liver, she said, probably remember eating liver that was tough and bitter tasting—not at all like the meat that the McElhaney family enjoys.

Another family favorite is Roberta's Special Chili, the recipe that emerged after countless experiments.

Roberta's Chili

1 can fancy red kidney beans
1 can tomato sauce
1 can whole tomatoes
2 to 2-1/2 lbs. ground beef
Chili powder to taste
1 beef bouillon cube
one chopped onion
one chopped green pepper
a hint of garlic
Soy sauce
Marjoram, basil (enough to fill center of cupped palm or 1 tsp.)
Salt to taste

Brown the ground beef in oil with one green pepper and one onion (both chopped). Put a dash of soy sauce in the meat mixture, then add the tomatoes, tomato sauce and bouillon cube. Next, add the chili powder and other spices to taste (using a light touch, then adding more if desired).

Cook until all of the ingredients have blended. Simmering on low heat for an additional hour or two will enhance the flavor. Then top with grated cheese or tostadas and serve.

Sometimes Roberta adds a bit of lemon juice or red wine to the chili mixture while it is cooking. Cooks who prefer a sweet taste to their chili can also add one-quarter cup or more of brown sugar, she said. If there are any leftovers, they can be frozen for another meal.

Fish is another specialty of Roberta's—every type from coho salmon and orange roughy to perch. She places a little lemon juice and parsley on top of the fish and bakes it until done in the oven or, if the fish is not too large, in the toaster oven. The lemon juice takes the so-called "fishy" taste out of the fish. The secret here, she said, is not to overcook the fish. Just a few minutes in the oven or the skillet will cook the fish—when a white, foamy substance appears on the fish, it is done. Fish with soft bones, such as salmon, can be cooked without deboning, but perch and other "boney fish" should be deboned as much as possible before cooking.

For dessert, picnics or parties, Roberta likes to bake an easy yellow cake with pudding, pineapple and whipped topping. To make it more festive for special occasions, she tops it with tinted coconut or grated walnuts.

Pudding Party Cake

1 yellow cake mix
1 package of vanilla pudding
1 can of drained, crushed pineapple
Whipped topping

Bake the cake according to directions in a 13x9x2 pan. Make the pudding, also following the directions, and let both cool. Then place the pudding on top of the cake. Next, spread the drained, crushed pineapple on top of the pudding and place the whipped topping on the top layer. For variation, place cherries, diced peaches, sliced bananas or other fruit in place of the pineapple. The cake can then be sprinkled with coconut or walnuts.

Whether or not you have ever tried fried mush for breakfast—or would want to try it—Roberta said she would be remiss as a Pennsylvania Dutch cook if she did not include a couple of traditional recipes from her home state—a sauerkraut dish and fried mush. Whether or not you have ever eaten fried mush for breakfast—or would want to try it—it is, nonetheless, one of the staples of Pennsylvania Dutch cooking.

Spareribs-Sauerkraut and Dumplings

3 lbs. Spareribs
1 quart Sauerkraut
2 cups Flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
Salt, pepper to taste

Cut spareribs into portions and place in the bottom of a roasting pan. Season to taste. Add the sauerkraut, cover and bake in a 350 degree oven for one and one-half hours. Make dumplings by combining the flour, baking powder, milk and egg. Drop by spoonful on the sauerkraut. Cover pan tightly and finish baking for 30 minutes.

Fried Mush

Bring 3 cups water and 1-1/2 teaspoons salt to boiling. Add a mixture of 1 cup corn meal and 1 cup cold water gradually, stirring constantly, until the mixture is thickened. Cover, lower the heat and cook slowly for 10 minutes or longer. Pour the hot Corn Meal Mush into a well-oiled loaf pan, over and chill thoroughly. Remove from mold and cut into slices (about one-half inch thick). Dip in flour and fry on both sides on a well-buttered hot griddle until nicely browned.

BUSINESS DIGEST

Yogurt Express opens in mall

Westland Center has a new business. And a tasty one at that!

The Yogurt Express joined the mall June 17 as part of a continuing expansion. The new business is located in Hudson's, on the main floor, near the elevators, on the west side of the building.

Hours of operation are the same as the store. The Yogurt Express brings in a new food concept to the store, featuring frozen yogurt, fruit juices, yogurt cones and yogurt sundaes made with fresh fruit and nut toppings.

Community college construction is beginning

Construction and renovation projects designed to carry Washtenaw Community College to the year 2000 and beyond officially began June 29 at the groundbreaking ceremonies. The ceremony, staged at the college campus on Huron River Drive, marked the beginning of four projects, which include a job skills and campus events building, computer and electronics facility, automotive service facility, and renovations, capital equipment and site development.

Total project cost is $19 million, but most of the funding will come from a $13.5 million bond issue, approved by Washtenaw County voters in the November 1986 general election, and a $3 million appropriation from the state. The series of construction and renovation projects is scheduled for completion in 1990.

Romulus firm named winner

The Air Freight Center, in Romulus, captured an honorable mention award in the 10th annual Commercial Vehicle Safety-Graphics Contest, co-sponsored by the Private Truck Council of America and Commercial Carrier Journal.

The contest recognized outstanding vehicle graphic designs and color schemes on the vehicles. The contest this year had two categories—a day and a night. Both categories had a first-, second- and third-place winner, with the judges' option of having an honorable-mention winner.

The Air Freight Center received an honorable mention in the night category.

Real Estate One to offer assessments

Offered through Real Estate One Commercial, through an agreement with Toxico Corp., will be environmental assessments of land, air, buildings and water. These assessments will measure the risk of contamination by such items as asbestos, PCBs, dioxins and other carcinogens which are likely to pollute a property.

Company officials stated these assessments are almost a requirement when buying or selling commercial or industrial property because of the risk of the property being in violation of federal or state laws. Officials noted that most of the banks and savings and loan companies are requiring these assessments or are in the process of determining their environmental policy on commercial loans. This service is currently being offered on a statewide basis.

Westland shop provides alternative for used clothes

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

profile

Don't throw out those old clothes just yet. They may be worth something.

At least they are worth something to Doris Silcox, of Westland, and Carol Silcox, of Dearborn Heights.

The two are sisters-in-law with a plan that seems to be working out better than had expected. The budding entrepreneurs have opened S and S Sunken Treasures, a resale shop for old clothes.

That old shirt or rarely worn sweater that doesn't seem to fit any more could actually bring in some extra money, the two explained.

"We have something to offer that helps the community in two ways," explained Doris. "It helps some people by making some extra cash for them, and it gives others a chance to buy quality items, both new and used, at a reduced price."

The retail shop, which opened March 1 on Newburgh Road, in Westland, is designed to help the needs of the customer and the people who are selling the items. Customers with old clothes sell them on consignment and receive one-half of the purchase price.

Doris and Carol believe there are a lot of people who have outgrown clothes or don't wear a lot of the things for which other people would pay top dollar.

Doris compared the store to a large, clothes garage sale with only one stop—and better merchandise.

"There are a lot of people who like what we offer because they don't have the time to go all over town and look for clothes," Doris said.

There is certainly no shortage of clothes at the store. Customers have discovered that $5 for that three-year-old jacket is worth trying their hand at on-consignment business practices.

"When people want to sell items, we make an appointment with them to discuss what they want to sell," said Doris, who keeps items on the floor for at least 60 days. "There are a lot of people who want to sell things. We have so many people contacting us that appointments have to be made almost a month in advance."

The two have written checks for as much as $596 and as little as $1.97 for items brought in to be sold. Many customers return with new merchandise once or twice each month.

Doris has been pleasantly surprised by the success of the business.

"We had a lot of people in the store during the winter and spring months, which was very surprising," she said. "I heard from a lot of people that the first few months of a new business are the hardest. It has dropped off a little bit, but I expect it to pick up again in the fall."
